

Abstract of the Disclosure

Germanium compounds suitable for use as vapor phase deposition precursors for germanium films are provided. Methods of depositing films containing germanium using such compounds are also provided. Such germanium films are particularly useful in the manufacture of electronic devices.